

Serving up a delicious twist of Australian produce — with comic Derek Nannup and one-of-a kind Indigenous chef Mark Olive

From the sparkling beaches of Eagle Bay and Augusta to the soaring forests of Boranup and Pemberton, explore the inspiring Western Australian outback as comic Derek Nannup joins forces with famed Indigenous Chef Mark Olive to serve up the best in Indigenous cooking.

A Noongar man from Western Australia, Derek Nannup is a celebrated comic, actor. dancer, circus performer and didgeridoo player, who spends his time working as a children's hospital clown doctor as well as a cultural presenter for school kids and tourists.

Nicknamed 'The Black Olive', Mark Olive is a Bundialung man from New South Wales and a world class chef and television personality who specialises in native ingredients. With over 30 years of local and international experience. Mark is famous for his charismatic personality and his unique, creative approach to cooking.

Throughout their travels together, this entertaining duo are a comedic force to be reckoned with. But there's just one problem. Derek doesn't know how to cook. Luckily, Mark is there to teach him, on the condition the pair collect only the freshest ingredients from around the Western Australian countryside - home to some of the best produce in the world.

Featuring amazing recipes for countless mouth-watering dishes, including pan seared duck, mushroom risotto, sheep cheese frittatas, finger lime butter and more, On Country Kitchen delivers a sensational look at the maiestic beauty of the famed Australian outback while serving up the very best of Indigenous cooking - with helpful and humorous tips audiences can follow along at home!

Australia, New Zealand & Rest of World Sales Sydney Head Office 700 Harris Street Ultimo NSW 2007, Australia abc.contentsales@abc.net.au TEL +61 2 8333 3970

UK & European Sales London Office TFI +44 20 7808 1361

abccommercial com/contentsales