

Spokesperson for the Prime Minister's office

A lot of people, groups and stakeholders put ideas to the Government all the time. We don't comment on private discussions however, I would recommend being very careful about representing the views of the Prime Minister through an unnamed third party.

The Albanese Government has delivered the most significant online wagering harm reduction initiatives of the past decade. We have:

- Established mandatory customer ID verification for online wagering;
- Banned the use of credit cards for online wagering;
- Forced online wagering companies to send their customers monthly activity statements outlining wins and losses;
- Introduced new, evidence-based tag lines in wagering advertising;
- Provided direct funding for specialist financial counselling to support people affected by problem gambling;
- Introduced nationally consistent staff training;
- Introduced new minimum classifications for video games with gambling-like content;
- Launched BetStop, the National Self-Exclusion Register, for problem gamblers.
