

10-Oct-2025

Professor John McMillan: the inaugural/former Australian Information Commissioner, and former Commonwealth Ombudsman:

“A good FOI law must strike a balance between the government preference for confidentiality and secrecy, and the community’s right to transparency and accountability. The proposed FOI changes are markedly one-sided: they would shift the balance to favour government and make the FOI request process more combative and costly.”