

Response from a Sky News spokesperson:

This sorry saga goes to the heart of our political and justice systems. Most of those questioning if it's in the public interest are either journalists who've missed the story, or those with a vested interest in keeping it hidden.