

dirtygirlworld seeds

Calling all Greenthumbs!
I challenge you to find seeds
and photograph them!

Hi Greenthumbs!

Seeds are really precious because they contain all the ingredients a new baby plant needs to grow (just add some soil, water and sunlight, of course!)

Nearly all plants make seeds so that they can make new baby plants!

Seeds come in all sorts of shapes and sizes, just like people!

Sometimes seeds need to travel in order to start to grow,
so there are seeds that can fly, and some that float on water!

Some seeds need birds and animals to eat them, and poop them onto the ground before they will grow!
Here are some pictures of some different types of seeds you might see if you go outside on a seed hunt.

That's an idea! Why not go outside looking for seeds?

Maybe you have some seeds that you have already collected or threaded into jewellery.

If you find a seed, take a picture and send it in to the ABC4kids photo gallery!

That way we can start a Greenthumbs seed collection 'seed box'. Cool!

Did you know that a coconut is a seed? That's a big seed!

Ken is using flying dandelion seeds
to float!

my dirtygirlworld
seed box is almost full!

fruits make
a lot of seeds

Don't forget to share your Make & Do activity pics in the ABC4Kids gallery!