

Getting Started:

Do you have hollow logs in your backyard or neighbourhood? You can turn dead wood into some truly unique pot plants!

- Hollowed log
- Rock Orchids
- Mulch (composted orchid bark works best)

What To Do:

1. Find a log with a hole big enough to plant something in
2. Fill it with mulch (composted orchid mulch works best)
3. Carefully pull apart your rock orchid until you find a stem that fits
4. Put the stem in the hole, moving the mulch so that it fits then is covered
