Statement from Attorney-General, Michelle Rowland MP:

I am aware that the District Court of South Australia sentenced Mr Boyle in relation to four charges earlier today.

The Government is committed to delivering strong, effective and accessible protections for public sector whistleblowers through staged reform of the Public Interest Disclosure Act 2013.

In the last Parliament, the Government delivered priority amendments to the Act to ensure immediate improvements to the framework were in place in time for the commencement of the NACC on 1 July 2023.

The Government is committed to a second stage of reforms that will ensure the Commonwealth public sector whistleblowing framework is clear, accessible and fit for purpose.
