

Response from a Kmart spokesperson:

Kmart has not designed or sold the offensive t-shirt in question – stocking such a product is not in line with our values nor our customer's values. We were disappointed that 2GB continued the discussion on air even after they were informed that the product in question was not a Kmart product and we apologise to any of our customers and team members who were upset by what was inaccurately being reported.