

Statement from a Woodside Energy spokesperson:

“Sky News produced the documentary under a commercial arrangement with Woodside, as part of the celebrations to mark our 70th anniversary. The partnership with Sky News on the program was disclosed on-screen. Woodside is proud to share our company story through the media given the contribution we have made over 40 years of operations, including delivering jobs and community benefits, supporting energy security in Western Australian and Asia, and paying tens of billions of dollars in taxes to Australian governments.”