

Dear Dianne

Thank you for your email. Peter and Steven decline your invitation to be interviewed but for background you should be aware that Westfield Corporation (WFD) came into existence as an entity in July 2014 when it was created as the owner of the former Westfield Group's international assets, principally in the US and the UK.

WFD has rigorous and well-established policies on political donations. Broadly, these require all donations (in whatever form or amount) to be approved by a responsible manager which ensures that political donations are properly authorised, meet all legal requirements and are aggregated for disclosure. Donations do not reflect any political preference or bias of any senior manager or board member.

WFD's policy is to disclose all political donations, including those that are below relevant thresholds for disclosure, and these are published annually on the Australian Electoral Commission website and widely reported in the media.

Regards

Mark
