

STATEMENT FROM COLES

Mix at Coles is sourced through an established fashion supplier, called New York Brands. New York Brands selects the site of manufacturing from a range of locations, depending on the technical requirements of the season's range and the capability of the factory.

Coles customers will find that all items of Mix clothing are clearly labelled with the country of origin, to ensure that you can make an informed decision when shopping at Coles.

Coles has a number of policies in place, including an Australian First and Ethical Sourcing Policy that dictates we will only source internationally when the demand cannot be met by the local industry.

While Coles sources products from a number of different factories, we are no longer ordering product that has been manufactured in Bangladesh. There is some remaining stock in transit, marked 'Made in Bangladesh', and we anticipate this will be sold through by the end of this year.