Statement from a TikTok spokesperson:

"We do not allow buying, selling, marketing or providing access to regulated, prohibited, or high-risk goods and services such as 'retatrutide'. When people search for it, or other related terms or names, they are not shown any videos as they are in breach of our strict Community Guidelines. We are expanding our detection and list of search terms daily, as the way people discuss these products rapidly evolves. Australians should always speak to their GP for health advice, and anyone who sees a video or account they believe shouldn't be on TikTok can report it."
