Statement from Michelle Gunn, Editor-in-Chief, The Australian:

John Stensholt is an award winning, highly respected business journalist whose job is to report on Australia's wealthiest people. John has never accepted a cent from Pratt Industries or any other subject. Financial and in-kind contributions third parties make to his travel expenses and accommodation are always disclosed and his coverage has included extensive reporting on the nexus between Mr Pratt's business and political decision making.

Any suggestions otherwise are totally false.
