Statement from One Nation Spokesperson:

One Nation members of Parliament and other spokespeople have regularly given interviews and comments to the ABC.

All requests to interview Senator Hanson are assessed case-by-case according to her availability and priorities. The Senator is in great demand at this time and she cannot possibly meet every request for an interview.

Senator Hanson has not 'broadened' access for media outlets; nor has she necessarily restricted it.

One Nation's social media platforms provide the party with the means to communicate directly with supporters without mainstream media anti-One Nation bias filtering our message. After years of being ignored and de-platformed by mainstream media, social media has enabled One Nation to engage with a large number of Australian voters and this has been one of several factors in the party's increased support in opinion polls and recent elections.

What do we think about our political rivals' social media campaigns? The simple answer is that we don't think about them at all.
