

Response from a Meta spokesperson:

This fact check was applied by an independent fact checker and not Meta. If someone disagrees with a rating applied to their content, they can request a review with the fact checking organisation. Meta doesn't believe companies like ours should decide what's true or false, so we partner with local, independent fact-checkers to identify and review potential misinformation.